

Panel during the FinTech Week Conference 2018.

Cecilia Malmström,
EU Trade Commissioner,
International Trade Update.

G2 Conference in Geneva, Switzerland.

ABOUT IIEEL

At the heart of the Institute’s mission is a commitment to interdisciplinary, international, non-partisan analysis and research of the most cutting-edge legal challenges facing economic policymakers.

The Institute offers a unique intersection of business and law in an international environment, connecting academia and practice.

IIEEL’s programming serves to prepare students and the wider global community with the skills and insight to Innovate, Engage, and Lead.

Substantive focus:

- Monetary Affairs
- Trade Law
- Financial Regulation with a focus on Fintech
- Tax Law

SIGNATURE PROGRAMMING

IIEEL hosts programs for policy debate, stakeholder engagement, and Executive Education with a wide range of global organizations, academia, private sector involvement, NGOs and governments. Select signature programming includes:

- Annual Global Trade Academy
- “G2” Conference in Geneva, Switzerland | Washington, D.C.
- Annual Fintech Week
- Annual Conference with the International Tax Policy Forum
- Annual International Trade Update
- Annual Interdisciplinary Sovereign Debt Research and Management Conference (DebtCon)
- Law and Macro Conference

IIEEL IMPACT

“In an era of global legal practice, Georgetown Law is recognized as a leader in transnational law. As the international commercial architecture evolves, IIEEL is at the forefront of our work on the most cutting-edge, complex and multidisciplinary issues.

Engagement with the Institute offers students, alumni and practitioners unparalleled opportunities to enhance their legal education and practice.”

— William M. Treanor, Executive Vice President and Dean of Georgetown University Law Center

Faculty Director Prof. Chris Brummer testifies on Bitcoin and ICOs.

Salzburg Global Fellows- one of the many ways IIEL engages with students and provides them with an international platform.

STUDENT ENGAGEMENT

The Institute recognizes the complex character of international economic law, and adopts a broad-based approach in teaching, scholarship and curricular offerings.

Along with Georgetown's offering of LLM (Master of Laws) Degrees, SJD (Doctor of Juridical Science) Degrees, IIEL offers fellowships and scholarships, facilitates moot court competitions, organizes writing competitions and builds the bridge between students and the private sector by facilitating the International Economic Law Practicum and internships.

MEDIA AND RESEARCH

IIEL and its projects are regularly covered by both national and international news outlets, as well as national media, i.e. C- Span. Through media engagement, our podcast, newsletters, twitter, testimonies, among other avenues, IIEL has a regular public presence, promoting and showcasing its work (as well as other C&I's work) in the framework of Georgetown Law.

IIEL faculty rank among the most productive and cited in the world on matters of international economic law, contributing to the analysis of today's most pressing global economic law and policy issues via our in-house Issue Brief publications, and with IIEL books, including the highly popular "Legal Aspects of Brexit".

Fintech Beat Podcast:

For this publicly available podcast, IIEL joined force with CQ Roll Call in Washington, DC to explore the rapidly transforming banking and financial services sector.

The podcast stands at the intersection of policy, finance, and tech providing deep insights across a variety of topics.

For sponsorship and giving opportunities for IIEL, please contact:

Dr. Christopher J. Brummer
IIEL Faculty Director & Professor of Law
chris.brummer@georgetown.edu

Marie Kasperek
Director of Programs & External Affairs
Marie.Kasperek@georgetown.edu
202-661-6647

Meha Jain
Program Associate
mj789@georgetown.edu
202 662 4193

